Landa C. Farley Wednesday morning won the fourth annual Sierra Madre-Mt. Wilson race by defeating the best field of starters the event has ever seen. His record for the 7.1-10 miles was 1:24:01, which lowers the record of "Soldier" King by 1 minute, 29 seconds.

Farley won as a prize the gold watch offered by the Sierra Madre Board of Trade, and will have his name inscribed on the big Richard K. Fox medal which goes to the winner of three races. Farley finished second in last year's race, and third in the 1909 event.

Peter George, a Greek, representing the Irish American Athletic club of San Francisco, finished a close second in 1:25:16. He also realized his ambition to lower the record of Soldier King who ran under the colors of the same club in the first race in 1908. George was the winner in the Los Angeles-Venice marathon. He takes as a prize the large silver cup offered by Hoegge and company.

Adolphus Gregg, winner of last year's race and who has finished one place ahead of Farley for the past two years, came in third. He represented the Southern California Athletic club.

Eighteen men started in the race which was the fourth annual event. Charles J. Fox, who originated the event, was greatly pleased with the number and class of entries.

"It was by far the best field of starters entered in any event of the series," he said to friends while watching them start away at two-minute intervals. "When I arranged with my father, to put up a trophy for the first race I had little idea that it would grow to hold such an important place in the sporting calendar of Southern California."

The class of men who ran up the trail may be seen by the fact that six of them finished in better time than 1 hour, 30 minutes. In the first race, held in 1908, Soldier King was the only man to accomplish the feat. All the men finished in good condition and without accident and the closeness of their records adds interest for the "dopesters."

Ed Dietrich, the Los Angeles Athletic club favorite, and winner of the 1909 race, was in poor condition, having suffered from rheumatism recently. This will account for his finishing ninth and in much slower time than he formerly made.

Equalling in interest the performance of the men entered in the race was the performance of little Edith Gray, the 9-year old daughter of E. B. Gray, the photographer who lives on Mt. Wilson. She made ascent in 1:51:50. Gray claims his little girl is the peer of any child of her age in the world in athletic ability. Constant outdoor life, daily hikes in the mountains and a carefully arranged plan of physical culture have developed her from an undersized and somewhat delicate child to a strong, healthy youngster who can outwalk and outrun most of her elders.

Farley finished in such good condition that he decided to try for a record on the descent as well. He made the trip down in 49 minutes, failing to equal the time made by King who descended in 46 minutes, 5 seconds.

Officials for the race were as follows:

Starter—Dal Jeffries, Los Angeles. Timers at Start—A. Hartman, Los Angeles, Wm. Gottlieb, New York.

Scorer at Start—J. A. Patterson, Sierra Madre.

Timers at Mt. Wilson—D. C. Van Court, F. C. Smithson, Los Angeles.

Judges at Mt. Wilson—W. P. Henderson, George A. Dameron, Los Angeles.

Scorer at Mt. Wilson—J. P. Hampton, Mt. Wilson.

PICK YOUR CHOICE FOR A FESTIVAL QUEEN

Interest in the voting contest for the selection of a queen for the Flower Festival has been growing rapidly within the past few days. Since the announcement of the contest in last week's News several young ladies have been placed in nomination and the friends of some of them have been making a busy canvass for votes.

Copies of last week's News containing the first ballot blanks have been in great demand. Advance orders for extra copies of this issue have also been received in considerable numbers at the time this is written.

Those wishing to cast ballots should remember that the voting will close tomorrow (Saturday) at noon. Until that time there will be no way of telling how the various candidates stand, as the ballot box has been locked since the first ballot was deposited and the key has been entrusted to Cashier H. G. Flint of the First National Bank for safe keeping.

At two o'clock Saturday afternoon the ballot box will be opened and the ballots counted. This responsible task will be entrusted to a committee consisting of Messrs. C. H. Perry, C. W. Jones and William Gottlieb.

The list of candidates is given below in the order in which their nominations were entered on the list:

Miss Elsie Caskey.	Miss Maybelle Caley.
Miss Cora Bell.	Miss Edith Blumer.
Miss Marjorie Rice.	Miss Edna Staples.
Miss Etoile Bennett.	Mrs. Roland Adams.
Miss Gertrude Cook.

OFFICIAL BALLOT FOR QUEEN OF FESTIVAL

Good for 10 Votes

FOR

MISS

(Candidates must be young ladies residing in Sierra Madre and at least sixteen years of age.)

Final preparations for Sierra Madre's first annual Flower Festival are going forward with all the speed and energy that can be furnished by a large and well organized committee.

Present indications are that the event will be one of the finest of the kind ever held in Southern California. While the weather during the spring season has been somewhat against the success of amateur growers who might exhibit flowers, there will still be a very creditable showing.

Exhibits will be brought here from some of the best known florists and horticultural experts of Southern California. Many rare specimens of flowering and ornamental plants will be shown.

Interest in the parade to be held Saturday afternoon has not been all that it should be but many entries are expected to come in within 48 hours as Chairman Mead of the parade committee has asked that all be in by tomorrow. Every business house in town should be represented by a float or representative entry, and every auto in town should be decorated and in line, as well as the bicycles.

The committee having the exhibits in charge has prepared the following official list of the various classes in which awards will be made:

Reports were given by Mmes. Moore and Copps, delegates to the reciprocity day programs of the Alhambra and Downey clubs. Mr. Pratt's subject was "Hitting the High Spots." He spoke largely concerning his work as a criminal lawyer in aiding to secure just application of the parole laws with a view to reforming and uplifting criminals. He has had a wide experience and has travelled extensively, giving him a fund of interesting information. Aside from his evident lack of preparation to address such an audience, and some references to churches and ministers which were unnecessarily offensive to many of his hearers, his remarks were listened to with keen appreciation.

PROTECTING HOME OWNERS

Pointedly pertinent to the present agitation in Sierra Madre over the permissible location of burro corals is an editorial which appeared in Monday morning's Herald touching upon the Los Angeles ordinance establishing industrial districts. The issue is so clearly stated that the editorial is here reprinted almost in full:

In the decision of Judge Willis of the superior court upholding the validity of the industrial district ordinance the city's legal department has won a victory which, if it is sustained by the higher court, will be of great value to the owners of homes, not alone in a sentimental way but in the protection of their properties from depreciation.

The separation of industrial and residence sections is so obviously to public advantage that it will be strange if the courts all along the line do not support Judge Willis' views. In this particular case a demand was made by the defendants that they should have rights in the matter of location paramount to the rights of the many. To the contention that the ordinance deprived them of their property rights the court answered that the city law did not prevent the prosecution of the business but only regulated the location.

But the inconsistency of the claim that to bar a factory from a given district is to deprive its owners of property rights may be seen in a moment's consideration. The rule that doesn't work both ways is a poor one, an old maxim has it. If a factory is set down in a residence district and home properties thereby are depreciated in value, what is that but depriving the owners of those homes of property rights?

It would seem as if any city ought to have power as much to regulate conditions such as those involved in the case just decided as to regulate noises or other nuisances that operate to the discomfort and property damage of investors in homes.

Los Angeles has made more progress in the line of segregation of business and homes than any other American city we know of. It is clearly a reform that tends to make it a more desirable place of residence, and it will be a great misfortune if the right of fair regulation is ever taken away or curtailed.

BURRO ORDINANCES PASSED

Two ordinances designed to make more stringent the regulations regarding the keeping of live stock and particularly burros in the residence portions of Sierra Madre were passed last night by the city trustees. Messrs. A. Hoegee and C. E. Chantry appeared to protest against the ordinances and the argument between them and the trustees lasted more than an hour, covering much the same ground as the discussion a week previous. It was their contention that the regulations were unfair to them in a business way and invaded their property rights. Mayor Jones contended that the property rights of the majority of property holders in the district affected were paramount in importance, especially when the residences had been built first. Mr. Hoegee also contended that Mountain Trail Avenue above the end of the car line should be regarded as a business district and not a restricted residence district, and that if he were not permitted to maintain his stables there it would force him to keep his animals on the street, even if they had to be kept moving all the time. The trustees could not see it that way and passed the ordinances.

Mayor Jones read a telegram from J. A. Madden at Clinton, Iowa, conveying his resignation as city attorney, which was accepted. No successor was elected.

Owing to the large number of people who come to Sierra Madre to reside only for a short time and consequent impossibility of giving all of them neighborly attention the impression is sometimes gained that our people are cold and indifferent to the needs of others. Especially is this true in cases where there is sickness in the family which keeps other members of the family so close at home that acquaintances are not formed and attention is not drawn to the possibility of helpfulness. In view of the existence of such an impression it is pleasant to record testimony of a different character. Mr. C. H. White, who has suffered a bereavement this week in the loss of his wife, after a brief residence in Sierra Madre, has expressed feelings of the deepest gratitude for kindnesses shown by many people, all of them total strangers when he arrived here. He has asked the editor of the News to express his thanks, which is done gladly in this way rather than in a formal card of thanks.

KINGS AT A PREMIUM

Cries of "Your Move," "Jumped," and "A King" might have sounded a little strange to any one standing in front of Patterson's Wednesday evening. Inside one might have seen ten high browed sports exemplifying the manly art of self defense as practiced by a checker shark. It was the first round of the tournament which has been arranged in the contest for the silver loving cup offered by William Gottlieb. The feature of the evening was the attempt of Breen, reckoned almost as good a checker player as he is a talker, to talk Patterson out of taking a series when he found it impossible to win by playing checkers.

Under the rules of the tournament each of the ten contestants must play a series with every other player, for two out of three. The series will be counted in reckoning the standings. Two series of games were played last night, resulting as follows:

Patterson defeated Betts, 2 straight.
Grilley defeated Farman, 2 straight.
Hart defeated Doucet, 2 straight.
Sebree defeated Breen, 2 straight.
Dow defeated Hawxhurst, 2 to 1.

In the second series the results follow:

Patterson defeated Breen, 2 to 1.
Betts defeated Hawxhurst, 2 straight.
Dow defeated Hart, 2 to 1 with one game drawn.

Grilley defeated Doucet, 2 straight.
Farman defeated Sebree, 2 straight.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

The relief map of Sierra Madre and vicinity made by City Engineer W. F. Bixby for the exhibit at the recent exposition in Los Angeles will be placed in the Chamber of Commerce or some other conspicuous place in Los Angeles as a permanent advertisement of Sierra Madre. The large painting of Sierra Madre will be placed in a permanent frame and used in a similar manner. This was determined at the meeting of the Board of Trade Monday evening, when the committee in charge of that exhibit was empowered to make the necessary arrangements.

F. D. R. Moore reported for the transportation committee that the request for the restoration of the 5:30 p. m. car had been agreed to by the Pacific Electric officials and that the car now leaving Los Angeles at 6:15 would be started 15 minutes later when the new time card is made up.

Indorsement of the park plan submitted to the city by Miss Frances Hawks was voted, together with a vote of thanks for the generous offer.

The membership application of Rev. M. W. Barth was received and accepted.

Mayor C. W. Jones reported some occurrences which made him think that just now might be an opportune time to ask the Pacific Electric for a new passenger station. Consequently the transportation committee was instructed to take the matter up.

A. S. Mead told of the work of the special committee on hotels, whose work had led to the formation of the Sierra Madre Hotel Company. He displayed a photograph of the exterior of the plans for the proposed new building, prepared by Architect Arthur Bouton. The board voted to indorse the project and the work of the committee.

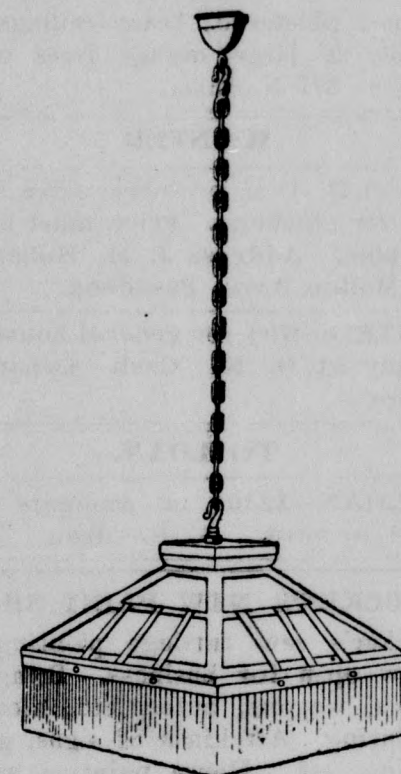

When everything else had been disposed of Secretary Patterson started to read something that sounded like a resignation. He was hardly given a fair chance to finish the reading till a motion to table the resignation was passed and the Board adjourned.

More About the Electric Surprise

From the last issue of the Los Angeles Graphic:—

Electric circles have been on the qui vive for the past few days in consequence of a semi-official announcement that the Southern California Edison Company is about to disclose a surprise which will be a great stride towards making the current available for another branch of household work. A general officer of the Southern California Edison Company, who some years ago took up the gigantic task of introducing the electric flatiron, with the result that about eighty thousand irons are now in general use throughout Southern California was asked to tell the Graphic the details of his new project. While he considers it would not be good business policy to make a premature announcement regarding a campaign which will not be launched until about the first of May, he consented to outline in the rough some of the features of the undertaking.

"The fact that the electric flatiron has become a necessity in every household," he said, "has been to me the most positive proof that other appliances can be made equally popular, if the selling price can be arranged so that they will be in the reach of all. For a year or more I have been making a careful study of appliances with the object of securing one which would become as universal as the flatiron. I am selecting an appliance which I know will find an appreciative purchaser in practically every household in Southern California. It will be used at least once every day, usually twice a day and in many homes several times a day.

"A few appliances now on the market do the work of the one which I refer to, but prices have been so high as to preclude them from the homes of those who cannot afford luxuries.

"By arranging to take the output of a large factory we will be able to sell the appliance that we are about to launch at practically one-third of the price now asked for the cheapest article of its kind on the market. It will be so cheap that no one can afford to do without it. The cost of electric current for its operation when economically used will not be appreciatively higher than gas.

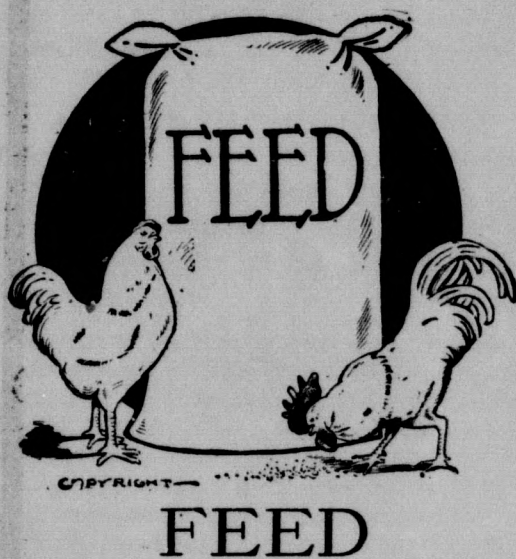

"As it operates without heating the room or vitiating the atmosphere—in fact it is operated upon the dining room table—it will unquestionably come into great demand during the summer months.

"No, we will not place this appliance on general sale, but will confine its distribution to consumers of Edison electricity."

If your business is not worth advertising, advertise it for sale.

After an absence of five years, Mme. Bernhardt will return to Los Angeles on Wednesday evening April 19, for a four days engagement at the Mason Opera house. Her present tour differs vastly from that which kept her in the limelight five years ago when in order to include many of the principal cities she was forced to play in tents, tabernacles, skating rinks and many nondescript buildings, without the aid of any scenic surroundings. This season Madame has brought over all her scenery and properties from the theater Sarah Bernhardt, Paris, France, together with the supporting company that is considered the best that has ever surrounded her on her various tours.

During her engagement here, the last she will ever give in this city, Mme. Bernhardt will be seen in the five plays which have proved the most popular during her triumphal tour of the United States.

She will open her engagement Wednesday night, April 19, with "L'Aiglon," Edmond Rostand's poetic drama in which she depicts the hopes and fears of Reichstadt, son of Napoleon I.

On Thursday night we shall witness the life and death of Marguerite Gautier, a character which Mrs. Bernhardt has made world-famous in the ever popular story of "Camille."

Friday night she will be seen in Bisson's famous melo-drama, "Madame X" originally written for Mme. Bernhardt.

A striking feature of her repertoire will be her performance on Saturday matinee of "Le Proces de Jeanne d'Arc" by Emile Moreau, produced for the first time in Paris, December, 1909.

Mme. Bernhardt will close her engagement Saturday evening appearing as Florence La Tosca in Victorian Sardou's masterpiece "La Tosca." A truly wonderful and varied repertoire in which every gamut of the drama is run.

Mail orders for the engagement are now being received and filled in order of receipt when accompanied by check or money order payable to the Mason Opera House. Never before in the history of Bernhardt tours has so great an interest been known in Los Angeles.

The regular box office sale will open Thursday, April 13, promptly at 9:00 a. m. Prices, $1.00, $2.00 and $3.00.

Majestic

Blanche Ring, one of the younger of the great musical comedy stars, will make her first appearance in Los Angeles at Hamburger's Majestic theater next week, presenting the latest thing in fun and melody, "The Yankee Girl" by George V. Hobart and Silvio Hein.

"The Yankee Girl" tells a story of American capital in a South American republic. Americans are endeavoring to secure concessions to certain valuable nitrate deposits in the Island of Brillantine. The party, including the Yankee Girl, Jessie Gordon (Miss Ring) is stopped by bandits, and have varied experiences with the president of the republic, who favors giving the concession to the Japanese. The story verges on the dramatic, but as soon as it begins to grow serious it is diverted into a travesty.

Miss Ring is given a number of good situations and a lot of snappy dialogue.

She also sings a goodly variety of pleasing songs which she has made famous. Among these, by general request are two which have been extensively used, but which never have been given with her distinctive interpretation, "I've got rings on my fingers," and "Yip I Addy I Ay." "Top o' the morning!" also is on her list. Associated with Miss Ring is a company of exceptional talent.

Burbank

"Arsene Lupin," the great detective drama which reigned in New York all last season with William Courtney starring in the title part, will make its first appearance on the Pacific Coast at the Burbank theater next week. This is the play for which Mr. Morosco purchased outright the original Frohman production, scenery, properties and all equipment complete, for the six stock companies in which he is interested, and the first stock production anywhere will be the one at the Burbank. Also Manager Morosco states that he is paying for this play the highest royalty he has ever paid for any play for stock production.
